THE CONVERSION SCRIPT TEMPLATE

The Framework for Writing YouTube Videos
That Book Sales Calls (Not Just Get Views)

"The difference between a video that gets views and a video that gets clients isn't the topic — it's the script structure."

THE SCRIPT STRUCTURE

Every high-converting YouTube video for coaches follows the same underlying structure. This isn't about being formulaic — it's about being intentional with every second of your viewer's attention.

THE FOUR SECTIONS

Section	Length	Purpose
Hook	10-30 seconds	Match your title/thumbnail. Answer WHO, WHAT, WHY.
Setup	30-60 seconds	Minimum context + curiosity gaps + establish your USP.
Body	~80% of video	Deliver value. Simple → complex. Rehooks every 2-3 min.
Outro	30-60 seconds	"This is only X%..." → Position service → CTA → End fast.

Remember: Business owners don't have time for fluff. They want value fast. Keep your hooks short, your content dense, and your CTA clear.

HOW TO USE THIS TEMPLATE

- Pre-Script Checklist (Page 3) — Complete this BEFORE writing a single word
- Hook Section (Page 4) — Script your first 10-30 seconds word-for-word
- Setup Section (Page 5) — Plan your curiosity gaps and USP
- Body Section (Pages 6-7) — Outline your main content + rehooks
- Outro Section (Page 8) — Craft your bridge to the CTA

COMPLETE BEFORE WRITING

PRE-SCRIPT CHECKLIST

The biggest mistake coaches make is opening a blank document and starting to write. Stop. Complete this checklist first. Your script will be 10x stronger.

1. PACKAGING (Title & Thumbnail)

- ☐ I have a working title that would make my ICP click
- ☐ I have a thumbnail draft (even a rough sketch)
- ☐ My title + thumbnail create a clear "plot promise"

Working Title:

Thumbnail Description (what will they see?):

2. AUDIENCE CLARITY

- ☐ I know exactly WHO this video is for
- ☐ I know what level of expertise they have
- ☐ I know what problem keeps them up at night

Who is this video for? (Be specific)

Example: "SaaS founders at $30K-$100K MRR struggling with churn"

3. GOAL ALIGNMENT

Viewer's Goal

What does the viewer want to learn/achieve from this video?

Your Goal

What do you want to happen after they watch?

PRO TIP

If your goal and the viewer's goal don't align, the script will feel "off" — like a guru trying to sell you something. Find the common ground.

1 THE HOOK First 10-30 Seconds

Your hook has ONE job: convince viewers they're in the right place. Match your title, show your thumbnail, and answer WHO/WHAT/WHY.

THE WHO/WHAT/WHY FORMULA

WHO — Call out your audience:

Example: "If you're a coach struggling to get clients from YouTube..."

WHAT — What will they learn:

Example: "...I'm going to show you the exact script structure that books calls"

WHY — Why should they trust you:

Example: "...the same one we've used to help 47 coaches sign clients from YouTube"

VISUAL MATCHING

First Sentence (matches title):

First Visual (matches thumbnail):

Why this matters: With YouTube's autoplay feature, viewers often watch your first 5 seconds on mute. If they don't SEE something relevant to your thumbnail, they'll scroll away before hearing a word.

HOOK EXAMPLES FOR COACHES

EXAMPLE 1: BUSINESS COACH

"Most business coaches have YouTube completely backwards. The ones with 100K subscribers? Often making less than coaches with 500. Here's why — and how to fix it."

EXAMPLE 2: HEALTH COACH

"Last month, a health coach with 47 subscribers closed a $15,000 client from a single video. I asked her how. What she told me changed everything I thought I knew about YouTube content."

2 THE SETUP 30-60 Seconds

After the hook, you need to establish context, create curiosity, and signal why YOUR video is worth watching over all the others.

MINIMUM CONTEXT

What's the minimum your viewer needs to know to understand the rest?

Be ruthless. Only include what's absolutely necessary. Everything else can come later.

CURIOSITY GAPS

Curiosity gaps are unanswered questions that make viewers NEED to keep watching. Open 1-3 in your setup.

Curiosity Gap #1:

Curiosity Gap #2:

Curiosity Gap #3 (optional):

Ways to Create Curiosity Gaps:

- Contradiction: "He says he can land anywhere... but there's no steering wheel"
- Verbalization: Ask the question out loud: "Which begs the question..."
- Interruption: Start to answer, then cut away
- Promise: "I'll reveal the 3 mistakes at the end"
- Tease: Show visual hints of what's coming

YOUR USP (Unique Service Proposition)

Why should they watch YOUR video instead of the 50 others on this topic?

Choose Your USP Type:

-  Expertise— credentials, experience
-  Effort— research, investment
-  Proof— you actually did the thing
-  Personality— your unique flavor

How will you signal it?

3 THE BODY ~80% of Your Video

This is where you deliver the value. Structure your points from simple to complex, and re-engage attention every 2-3 minutes.

MAIN POINTS (Simple → Complex)

List your main teaching points in order. Start with foundational concepts, build to advanced ideas.

Point 1 (simplest — entry point for beginners):

Point 2:

Point 3:

Point 4:

Point 5 (most advanced — reward for those who stayed):

THE "BUT/THEREFORE" RULE

Don't write: "This happens. And then this happens. And then this happens."

Instead write: "This happens, BUT this happens, THEREFORE this happens."

The writers of South Park (28 seasons) swear by this. It creates tension and keeps viewers engaged. Review your points — can you connect them with "but" or "therefore" instead of "and then"?

REHOOK PROMPTS

Attention isn't won once — it's won repeatedly. Every 2-3 minutes, insert a "rehook" to re-engage wandering minds.

Timestamp	Rehook Line
~2-3 min mark
~5-6 min mark
~8-9 min mark
~11-12 min mark

Rehook Examples:

- "But here's where it gets interesting..."
- "Now, this next part is crucial..."
- "I almost didn't include this, but..."
- "Stop me if this sounds familiar..."
- "This is the part most coaches get wrong..."
- "What I'm about to show you took me 3 years to figure out..."

EDITING NOTES

As you script, add notes for visuals, b-roll, graphics, or effects. This makes editing 10x easier.

Key visuals/graphics needed:

Example: "Show screenshot of analytics dashboard when discussing metrics" or "Cut to case study testimonial clip here"

RHYTHM TIP

Vary your sentence length. Short punchy sentences. Then longer ones that flow and elaborate on the point you're making. This creates rhythm and keeps viewers engaged. Monotone = boring.

4 THE OUTRO Final 30-60 Seconds

This is where viewers become leads. Acknowledge the value, create the gap, position your offer, deliver the CTA, end fast.

THE 5-PART OUTRO FORMULA

1. VALUE ACKNOWLEDGMENT — Summarize what they learned:

Example: "So now you have the complete script framework — the hook, setup, body, and outro structure."

2. THE GAP — "But this is only X%...":

Example: "But scripting is only about 30% of what makes YouTube work for client acquisition."

3. THE MISSING PIECES — What else do they need?

Example: "You still need the right topics, professional editing, thumbnails that click, and a system to track which videos bring clients."

4. YOUR OFFER — Position as the solution:

Example: "That's exactly what we do at Finest Clients — the full done-for-you system."

5. THE CTA — Clear next step:

Example: "If you want to see how it works, link is in the description. Otherwise, see you in the next one."

Critical: After your CTA, END THE VIDEO. Don't ramble. Don't add "don't forget to like and subscribe." The energy should stay high. Cut to black.

REAL EXAMPLE

EXAMPLE: BUSINESS COACH

Video Topic: "Why Most Coaches Fail at YouTube (And How to Fix It)"

HOOK (15 seconds)

"Most business coaches have YouTube completely backwards. The ones with 100,000 subscribers? Often making less money than coaches with 500. Today I'll show you why — and the 3 shifts that fix it. I've helped 47 coaches sign clients from YouTube in the last 12 months, most with under 1,000 subscribers."

WHO: Business coaches | WHAT: Why they fail + 3 fixes | WHY: 47 coaches helped

SETUP (45 seconds)

"Here's what most coaches don't understand: YouTube for entertainment and YouTube for client acquisition are two completely different games. One optimizes for watch time. The other optimizes for buying intent. Mixing them up is why your videos get views but zero calls. By the end of this video, you'll know exactly which videos to make, how to structure them, and — this is the part most coaches miss — how to track which video led to which client. Let's start with the biggest mistake."

Curiosity Gaps: "Two different games" (what are they?) | "Part most coaches miss" (what is it?) | "Biggest mistake" (what is it?)

BODY OUTLINE

- Point 1: The Viewer vs. Buyer distinction (simple concept, easy entry)
- Point 2: The 5-Zone System for topics (builds on Point 1)
- Point 3: Script structure for conversion (gets tactical)
- Point 4: The attribution system (advanced, rewards those who stayed)

OUTRO (30 seconds)

"So now you know the difference between viewer content and buyer content. You have the 5-Zone System. You have the script structure. But here's the thing — this is maybe 30% of *what makes YouTube actually work for client acquisition. You still need the editing, the thumbnails, the SEO, and someone to actually execute this every single week. That's what we do at Finest Clients. If you want to see how the full system works, there's a link in the description. Otherwise, I'll see you in the next one."*

BEFORE YOU RECORD

FINAL CHECKLIST

Run through this checklist before you hit record. If you can't check every box, your script needs more work.

HOOK

- ☐ First sentence matches my title
- ☐ First visual matches my thumbnail
- ☐ I call out WHO this is for
- ☐ I explain WHAT they'll learn
- ☐ I establish WHY I'm credible
- ☐ Hook is under 30 seconds

SETUP

- ☐ I provide only minimum necessary context
- ☐ I open at least 1 curiosity gap
- ☐ I signal my USP (expertise/effort/proof/personality)
- ☐ Setup is under 60 seconds

BODY

- ☐ Points flow from simple to complex
- ☐ I use "but/therefore" not "and then"
- ☐ I have rehooks every 2-3 minutes
- ☐ I vary my sentence rhythm
- ☐ I've added editing notes for visuals

OUTRO

- ☐ I acknowledge the value delivered

- 📌 I create a gap ("but this is only X%...")
- 📌 I position my offer as the missing piece
- 📌 My CTA is clear and specific
- 📌 I end fast after the CTA
